Program Title		“Creating an Ethical Workplace”
Hours	3 - 5	Presentation Format:	Microsoft PowerPoint & Video
Course Description		We all have ethics; they just don’t always match the ethics of those around us. Be able to analyze your ethics from the position of how great a price you must pay to act in accordance with them. Compare your behavioral ethics to those required of you by your relationships, your job and your sincere beliefs.
Highlights		Many people tend to equate ethics with their feelings. But being ethical is clearly not a matter of following one's feelings. A person following his or her feelings may recoil from doing what is right. In fact, feelings frequently deviate from what is ethical. This program focuses on how to create an ethical workplace that you can be proud to call your own.
Special Points		Participants will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Define 3 types of ethics and what they mean • Determine the difference between situational ethics and personal ethics • Create a balance sheet for the price they pay for the ethics they choose • Identify the ethics required and rewarded by those around them • Develop a code of ethics • Analyze standards of behavior • Discover the price of ethics • Define the risks of ethics • Learn ethical problem solving techniques
